

For some people, getting water is as easy as turning on the faucet. But for millions of others, it is a daily struggle that dominates their lives.

This is the global water crisis... and it is the most urgent social challenge of our time.

For more than 30 years we've made it our mission to empower people in need with sustainable access to safe water and sanitation at home.

We can't solve other global challenges without investing in water.

Water is the best investment the world can make...

To empower women
fight climate change improve health
and end poverty.

Right now, millions of people are paying high prices for water from vendors or collecting water from unsafe natural sources. Both options cost families in time, money, opportunities and health.

What if they didn't have to?

What if they could get access to the funds needed to give their families a long-term safe water solution at home and a private place to go?

They can.

Water.org breaks down the financial barriers between people living in poverty and the safe water and toilets they need to survive and thrive.

Our solutions are smart, simple, and sustainable. They are changing more lives, faster and more efficiently.

Millions stand ready to change their families' lives through this proven, powerful approach...and you can make it happen.

Now is the time to invest in water... for people, for progress and for possibility. The future of families around the world depends on it.
